

Furo

Written by Administrator

Furo

Furo is a humanoid robot that can interact with users through its large touch screen. It features advanced sensors for human face and voice recognition, and can be equipped with various peripherals like a photo printer, receipt printer, and business card scanner. It also has ultrasonic obstacle sensors and two driving wheels for mobility.

Furo is a humanoid robot that can interact with users through its large touch screen.

Furo, a humanoid robot, can interact with users through its large touch screen. It features advanced sensors for human face and voice recognition, and can be equipped with various peripherals like a photo printer, receipt printer, and business card scanner. It also has ultrasonic obstacle sensors and two driving wheels for mobility.

Furo is a humanoid robot that can interact with users through its large touch screen.

Furo is a humanoid robot that can interact with users through its large touch screen. It features advanced sensors for human face and voice recognition, and can be equipped with various peripherals like a photo printer, receipt printer, and business card scanner. It also has ultrasonic obstacle sensors and two driving wheels for mobility.

